How to reset filter samsung fridge

The water filter indicator light is designed to turn orange after five months or 450 gallons, and red after six months or 500 gallons. Depending on the model you have the light can be either green or blue. To reset the water filter indicator you need to find the multi-function button(s) on your display that controls the filter indicator. Then press and hold the button(s) until the light changes. Examples of Different models NOTE: The images below are examples of a few different models. You should inspect your refrigerator's display panel and look for similar traits. The Samsung refrigerator is one of the most reliable brands of refrigerators to this day. One of its most useful features is the Filter Light. The Filter Light is mostly located at the top right corner of the refrigerator door and its purpose is to let you know when it's time to change the charcoal filter. This guide will help you reset Filter Light On Samsung Refrigerator so you won't have to worry about forgetting when to change it. When the filter reset light in your Samsung water filter won't go off even after you've successfully changed the filter, remember that it only blinks red to let you know when it is time to change the filter. A Samsung fridge water filter replacement can be tricky, but it's not rocket science. If you follow the steps we show you below and reset the filter light, you should get a working filter, and the filter light will go off. We also have tips for other common problems that might come up during a Samsung fridge water filter replacement. How To Reset Filter Light On Samsung Refrigerator – Step By Step Guide Most Samsung refrigerators have a filter indicator light that illuminates when the water and ice filter require replacing. This can be annoying if you don't use a lot of water or ice in your home, but luckily there is a way to turn this feature off. When Samsung refrigerators have a red filter icon on the display panel, it means a service indicator has been activated. To turn off the indicator, hold down the filter reset button for 2-3 seconds. This is a good reminder that if you can't find the filter reset button on your refrigerator, check your owners' manual. It may be on the front of your fridge. Samsung fridges have a WATER FILTER button and an ICE/WATER button. To reset the water filter light on Samsung fridges, you can either press and hold down the WATER FILTER button for three seconds or the ICE/WATER button for three seconds. If your refrigerator filter light is on, you need to reset the water filter. The reset procedure for different models of Samsung fridges is different, so we will cover the steps for many popular models (their typical steps). Samsung Refrigerator filter Light Reset Steps For model RF28K9070SR There are two ways to reset the filter indicator on your RF28K9070SR model. From the control panel, press and hold down the Ice-Maker button for 3 seconds to reset the filter indicator. If you still have trouble after performing these steps, contact customer service. Samsung French Door Refrigerator filter Light Reset Steps For model RF260/BEAESR/AA To turn off the alarm, you need to press and hold down the ALARM/HOLD button for 3 seconds. This will disable the alarm immediately on units with interior controls. For units with exterior controls like disc-style buttons or membrane switches, you will have to press and hold down the FRIDGE+POWER COOL button for 3 seconds. Samsung Refrigerator filter Light Reset Steps For model DA29-00003G When you push down on your ice maker's ALARM/HOLD button for three seconds, the refrigerator filter replacement warning light will reset itself. Samsung Refrigerator filter Light Reset Steps For model RF23J9011SG/AA Press and hold the "CRUSHED ICE" button for three seconds to clear the water filter warning. Samsung Refrigerator filter Light Reset Steps For model RF24R7201SR/AA In many Samsung fridges, pressing the Filter Reset button for 3 seconds will switch off the filter reset indicator. The Filter Reset corresponds to a light on the dispenser which indicates that the water filter is due for replacement. If the filter reset indicator light is illuminated, a new water filter is required. Samsung Refrigerator filter Light Reset Steps For model RF263BEAESR If your RF263BEAESR Samsung refrigerator water filter won't reset automatically, try the following step: Touch and hold down the ICE TYPE/WATER button for 3 seconds. Release the button. Touch the FRESHENER light 7 times within approximately 15 seconds. The filter indicator light will blink once. Samsung Refrigerator filter Light Reset Steps For model RF23J9011SR If your Samsung refrigerator RF23J9011SR water filter is not functioning, you can reset this error by holding the "Crushed/Hold" button and the "Normal Dispense" button together for 3 seconds. Other Possible Solutions If you can't get the red error light to turn off, there are a few things you can try before calling for support. That said, if your fridge is still under warranty, try this first: Ensure That Control Panel Is Unlocked You must first "unlock" the fridge controls for the filter reset button to work. Consult your manual book for instructions on how to do this. Ensure That Filter is Seated Correctly If the filter light is still blinking, open the door and check if filter is seated properly. Poor seating may cause poor water flow. Make sure the filter is fully inserted into the unit and that both sides of the filter are correctly inserted into the guide rails. Ensure That Filter is Correctly Installed The light notification on Samsung refrigerators may not clear if you've installed a filter that isn't genuine, and this means that it has to be removed and replaced. Final Thoughts This DIY repair guide is great for anyone looking to fix their refrigerator's water filter light. After you've mastered the instructions in this article, you'll understand how to properly reset the filter light on a Samsung fridge and get rid of your water filter warning. We hope we've given you all the information you need to reset your Samsung refrigerator. If we've missed anything or if you're still having trouble, then please let us know in the comments. You need a clean water filter to get fresh, filtered water. We recommend that you replace the water filter every six months. The refrigerator's water filter light will let you know when those six months are up and should be reset after changing the filter. Note: Only use Samsung Genuine Filters that are designed to work with your Samsung refrigerator. You can purchase them directly on our website. Do not use third-party water filters, which may leak and damage the refrigerator. There are three types of Samsung water filters, so you'll want to make sure you're choosing the correct one for your fridge. First, locate the filter in your fridge model. The location will vary depending on your model, so please check your user manual if you're unsure. Then, check the model number on the filter itself. This will let you know which of the following filter types you'll need to purchase. Replacing your water filter is simple and should only take a few minutes. If you're unsure about whether you need to replace the filter, check the indicator light on your fridge. After 6 months, the indicator will change. On some models it lights up when it wasn't lit before, and on others it will turn red. At this time, you should change the filter right away. HAF-CIN and HAF-QIN filter types: First, turn off the water supply and then locate the filter. If you are unsure where it is, please consult your user manual. Open the water filter cover and then rotate the old filter counterclockwise to unlock it. Then, pull it straight out to remove it from the filter housing. To insert the new filter, first remove the protection cap from the top of the filter. Then, push it straight into the filter housing and turn it clockwise. Make sure the lock symbol matches up with the indicator line. First, turn off the water supply and then locate the filter. If you are unsure where it is, please consult your user manual. To remove the old filter, twist it to the left. This will unlock it. Then, pull it down to remove it from the filter housing. To insert the new filter, push it up into the filter housing and then turn it to the right. Make sure the notch at the top of the filter is matched up with the arrow on the filter housing. After replacing your filter, dispense a few gallons of water to flush out any impurities or air. Then, make sure to reset the water filter light on your fridge. Please see the next sections for more information. The water filter light on your fridge operates on a timer and will turn on after 6 months. For models where the indicator is always lit, it will turn red after 6 months. Depending on the quality of the water in your area and the amount of water you dispense, you may want to change the filter more or less frequently than the light suggests. To determine if a new filter is needed, dispense water first with the filter installed and then with the filter removed. If the speed the water dispenses at is significantly different, you should replace the filter whether the indicator is lit or not. You can use the following steps to reset the filter light: Find the Filter Reset button on the control panel, if it's available. It is sometimes the secondary function of another button on the panel. Once located, touch and hold the correct button for 3 seconds until the light resets. The filter icon will either turn off or change back to its normal color when it's reset. This starts the 6 month timer over again. Note: Some models may require two buttons to be touched simultaneously to reset the light. Touch screen models will use on-screen menus instead. For instructions specific to your refrigerator, see your user manual. The water filter light and timer can be reset on your Family Hub fridge with the following steps: From the Home screen, tap Apps, and then tap Fridge Manager. Tap Water Filter, then tap Reset, and then tap Proceed. This will reset the filter light and timer. After tapping the water filter icon, you can tap Buy Filter to purchase a Samsung water filter if needed. You can also reset the filter light on models RF4289 and RSC309. Navigate to and select the Settings icon at the bottom of the display, and then tap Water Filter. When the Water Filter menu opens, tap Next in the bottom right corner three times until you reach page 4/4 of the Water Filter menu. Touch and hold Reset the water filter in the middle of the display until the status of the filter changes. After "Filter Replaced" appears and goes away, tap Save in the bottom right corner of the display. The National Sanitation Foundation (NSF) and the American National Standards Institute (ANSI) have various standards to identify what is filtered by a water filter. Samsung's water filters are Carbon Filters rated for the NSF/ANSI 42, NSF/ANSI 53, and NSF/ANSI 401 standards. NSF/ANSI 42 Filtered to reduce aesthetic impurities such as chlorine and taste/odor. Certified to reduce a contaminant with a health effect. Health effects are set in this standard as regulated by the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) and Health Canada. Asbestos, Atrazine, Benzene, 2, 4-D, Carbofuran, Chlorobenzene, Cyst (99.99%), Endrin, Ethylbenzene, Lead, Lindane, Mercury, O-Dichlorobenzene, P-Dichlorobenzene, Tetrachloroethylene, Toxaphene, Turbidity Verified to reduce one or more of 15 emerging contaminants from drinking water. These emerging contaminants can be pharmaceuticals or chemicals not yet regulated by the EPA or Health Canada. Atenolol, Bisphenol A, Carbamazepine, DEET, Estrone, Linuron, Nonylphenol, Phenytoin, Trimethoprim If you are having trouble placing the new water filter in your refrigerator, even though the old one fits, please check out our troubleshooting guide for assistance.
